

Website/Software translation

Your company has decided to expand its business and go abroad? You are considering to sell your software on the German or Russian market? You do already have a website and need it to be multilingual? Or you are about to create a new personal or commercial website and need it to be multilingual?

The most important in website and software translations is the translator's multicultural competence. A well translated website/software is not least of great significance for your company's success. Prices depend on the volume of material needed to be translated and the complexity of the source text. Minimum order is 50 Euros.
